DISPATCIES FROM WILLIS.

The President and His Advisors Occupied With Them Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) Interest in the Hawaiian question centers in the dispatches from Minister Willis by the Corwin, which came to hand at the State Department today. Secretaries Gresham, Lamont and Carlisle visited the White House and had a conference with President Cleveland. Secretary Olney came later, and remained closeted with the President and Secretary Gresham some time for the purpose, it is said, of giving advice on some points involved in the news that Minister Willis sent.

All that could be learned of the dispatches is that they contain about 12,000 words, President Dole's letter in reply to Minister Willis containing about 5000 words. It was thought that the latter would be sent to Congress, but the perusal by the President occupied considerable time, and it was found that preparation of copies to be sent to the Capitol would occupy much more. It is thought tonight, however, that the matter will go in tomorrow upon the assembling of Congress.

WILL CALL FOR INFORMATION.

The Mitt Resolution to Be Reported to the House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) The House Committee on Foreign Affairs has agreed to report favorably the resolution of Mr. Pitt calling on the President for the latest information on the Hawaiian question. Mr. McCreary, chairman of the committee, says the report will be submitted to the House tomorrow.

Mr. Holman's protectorate resolution will not be introduced yet. Mr.
Hitt's resolution was the result of the Auckland cable to the Associated Press, and was introduced as soon as Mr. Hitt satisfied himself that the information was accurate and that the administration had information of the same character.

KEEPING CLOSE.

The Corwin's Officers Will Not Permit Any Familiarities.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) United States revenue cutter Corwin is still anchored off San Quentin, and though there have been later advices from Honolulu than she bears made public, the ban of secrecy has not been removed from her.

Today a city boatman tried to put some city newspaper aboard. "Get away," he said, "we're not allowed to have any newspaper on board." The cutter was hailing distance. He was told to throw overboard the papers and let them be fished up by the crew from the cutter.

A DISPATCH TO HASTINGS.

At Quiet at Honolulu—Thurston on His Return Trip.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) A tardy dispatch has been received at the Hawaiian Legation, which arrived by the Warrimoo at Vancouver.
It advises Charge d'Affaires Hastings that all is quiet at Honolulu, and that Thurston is to come back to this country on the steamer City of Peking, now overdue at San Francisco.

REPUBLICAN AFFAIRS.

The National Executive Committee Holds a Meeting at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) The Republican National Executive Committee met in session at noon.

Chairman Thomas H. Carter resigned the chairmanship on account of his recent proposal to Joseph H. Manley of Maine was chosen temporary chairman of the Executive Committee, and Carter continued as chairman of the National Committee.

The committee adjourned at midnight, after eleven hours' continuous session. It was decided a Congressional committee, with headquarters at Washington, will furnish cameras documents. Another meeting of the Executive Committee will be held tomorrow morning, when the location of headquarters will be decided, although New York has practically been agreed upon. William A. Hahn of Ohio was elected secretary of the Executive Committee.

COLODO'S JOKE.

Legislators Poke Fun at the Extra Session.

Representative Baldwin Distinguishes Himself—The Senate in Favor of Adjournment—The Assembly Not So Disposed.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) Ex-Commissioner Blount was before the Senate subcommittee on Hawaii this morning.
The efforts of the committee were directed chiefly to securing an explanation from Blount of his various acts while in Honolulu. He told briefly of his appointment by the President as special commissioner, and he said that he considered the appointment to be within the bounds of propriety, and precedent.

The trip to the islands on the revenue cutter Rush, his landing in Honolulu on March 29, and his reception by the people on both sides of the question were passed over almost with out mention, as was the fact that both annexationists and Royalists were apparently exceedingly anxious that his story be as pleasant as possible.

The decision to have the American flag hauled down and the American marines returned to the man-of-war Boston, was next revived. Blount said he found the islands and the government entirely under the control or protection of the United States troops.
The American flag floated over the government building in which the officers of the provisional government conducted business. Everywhere there was noticed the influence of this country upon the people of the islands.

It was evident, Blount said, that it would be difficult to secure an impartial account or opinion uninfluenced by the surroundings as long as this state of affairs continued. Consequently he decided on March 21, two days after his arrival, in accordance with the spirit of his instructions, and in the interest of fair play, that the American troops removed. Of this decision he informed President Dole, and on the following day, April 1, ended the temporary protectorate and he had the flag lowered. This proceeded he defended as within the scope of his mission, and as an entirely proper proceeding under the circumstances.

Subsequent events, he said, proved that the presence of American troops were not necessary to preserve order or protect the life and prosperity of either Americans or natives.

Mr. Blount contended that his report was impartial and that the investigation is without prejudice or favor. He stated that he took the testimony in his own way, and acted on his own judgment. He had been selected to make the examination and had been given entire authority to conduct it in any manner he saw fit, and obtain the most accurate and best information concerning the revolution.

At the conclusion of the examination, Blount had a long conference in the committee-room with Senator Morgan.

A CHANGE OF MIND.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—The Republican members of the House held another caucus tonight to discuss the question of immediate adjournment. The determined stand taken by the Senate and the potent influences brought to bear by the party leaders have changed the opinion of some Republicans in regard to the wisdom of continuing the session. Indications late tonight are that the Legislature will adjourn sine die tomorrow, or, at least, on Saturday.

A LEATHER MEDAL.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—Gov. Waite received today a leather medal of the size of a silver dollar. On one side was the inscription: "To His Excellency, David H. Waite, in token of the esteem of the citizens of Colorado for his able decision to act in opposition to their wishes and best interests." On the other side were: "Colorado, 57 cents; Mexico."

"Well, I only quoted the Governor," Baldwin replied, but the resolution was not received.

GAS AND BOMBS.

Explosion in a Tenement House Does Much Damage.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) The attempt to blow up with two bombs the tenement house at No. 54 Avenue D was made tonight. The tailor shop on the first floor had been locked up over a month owing to hard times. At 10 o'clock the explosion occurred. An alarm of fire was promptly turned in. The whole front of the house had been blown out by the explosion, and all the glass in the building had been shattered. The shock aroused the whole neighborhood.

The firemen found that the gas meter had exploded, and discovered a trail of kerosene which led from the meter to the cellar. They found a quantity of coke scattered around the meter, and a bomb made of lead pipe to which half a pound of gunpowder was attached.

A later examination showed that the bomb was filled with enough powder to blow the whole house into fragments. The fire department came quickly, and the explosion had been extinguished.

A terrible explosion followed.

EDWIN FIELD.

The Millionaire's Crooked Son Taken to New York for Trial.

BUFFALO (N. Y.), Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) Edwin M. Field, son of the late Cyrus W. Field, was released from the insane asylum today and was taken to New York to stand trial for ruining his stock firm by forging stock certificates and engaging in fraudulent financing.

He was arrested, adjudged insane and sent here for treatment under order from the Supreme Court about two years ago. He is under many indictments, and his bail aggregates $400,000.

His crookedness ruined his millionaire father, who died shortly afterward of a broken heart.

L. Waterhouse, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the State penitentiary at Salem, on a charge of forging a name to a $35 check.*After serving his sentence, Stagg returned to Portland. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) The police have suddenly been confronted by one of the most mysterious cases that they have ever tried to solve. This morning Steve Wilks applied at a boarding-place and engaged a room for a week, paying in advance. Then he left the house, returning late this afternoon and going to a room on the same floor occupied by Josie Stevenson.*Late tonight a man called at the house and asked to see Miss Stevenson. The landlady found the room door open. Miss Stevenson was lying on the floor, dead, with a bullet hole through her forehead. Wilks was on the bed shot twice through the heart. Between the two on the floor was a revolver, all five chambers being empty.*The first theory was murder, followed by suicide, but after an examination of the room and the wounds, the police say that neither of the dead persons could have been the fatal shot. Two additional shots from a revolver were fired at the man, but missed. Although several persons were in the house, no one heard any shooting or unusual noise.*The man who called for Miss Stevenson has disappeared. His name was found as H. O. Mason. The Duval Club today made another statement to the public, the first of which is devoted to the history of the Duval Club and the proposed Corbett-Mitchell glove contest.A new and interesting part of the statement embodies the letter from Mr. Bowden to the Governor which recalls to his memory "during the conference at Tallahassee, the Governor advised the club people to bring any legal proceedings that they could against him, that the contest is not illegal, and denies that any collusion exists between the club and local law-officers in having Corbett and Mitchell arrested in order to make up a test-case. The letter states that the club does not propose to have a prize-fight, pure and simple. The statement continues:"While this letter was in transit, the County Solicitor took advantage of our liberty of not pushing habeas corpus proceedings, and nolle prossed the case against Corbett and Mitchell, thus preventing us from judicially determining the question of the right of the club to hold the contest.*The solicitor was instructed to be present in the City Treasurer's office and identify the men employed in the park department when they present their demands for monthly pay.*On motion it was ordered that the Fire Commission be requested to have the Fire Department to appear before the Board of Commissioners to determine whether the club has the right to hold the contest.*A communication from Mayor Rowan said: "I would respectfully recommend that you anticipate the work on the parks that is necessary so that the same can be performed in the next few months, in order that those of our residents who are now in need of employment can be furnished with work for the support of themselves and their families."*The superintendent was instructed to investigate immediately and report.*A communication from Superintendent Legrand urged that the topographical map of Elysian Park be made available to the club. He said it would cost much less to make the map than to wait until the park had become fully forested. Such a map would be valuable as an aid in developing the park.*On motion Edward Lownes was employed at $6 per day to make such a map, he to secure his assistance from the City Engineer's office.*The Gayley Lectures.*Continued interest was manifested in the fifth of a series of lectures on English comedy, delivered by Prof. Gayley last evening. Personally appeared before me, H. G. OTIS, President and general manager of the Times-Mirror Company, and George W. Crawford, foreman of the newspaper of the Times-Mirror Company, who being of good character, do hereby depose and say that even a small minority of the Eastern officials at Washington knew enough about irrigation to distinguish between a flume and a dam site.

called to another branch of fraud upon the revenue, which is likely to receive a great impetus from the proposed action of Congress in extending the ad valorem in place of specific duties on imported goods. As we recently showed, no greater temptation to fraud can be offered than this. If one merchant imports goods worth $1 a yard, and has it valued at 50 cents a yard, where the duty is 40 per cent, he, of course, saves 20 cents on each yard of the stuff which he imports. It is evident that the competitors of this man must either go out of business or adopt a similar policy, however unpleasant such a course may be to them. Thus it is easy to see how the entire business of importing goods becomes honey-combed with fraud and scandal, involving both the importers and the officials of the government, a large proportion of whom are unable to resist the brilliant inducements which the importers can well afford to make them in return for the small favor of shutting their eyes whenever anything turns up that they ought not to see.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.

Joseph Murphy presented his realistic and interesting Irish play, "Kerry Gow," to the Los Angeles last night to the largest audience of his management. The blithe and merry Irish blacksmith, Dan O'Hara, is a role that fits Mr. Murphy's talents to a t, and he rolls in the witty lines of the play with the abandon of a boy in clover. The story of "Kerry Gow" has, of course, a mortgage in it, but what would a Celtic drama be without a mortgage and a hard-fisted holder of it who wants the debtor's daughter in order to wipe out the incumbrance on the farm. For all these conventionalisms, however, and notwithstanding the many incidents, the interest is well sustained by Mr. Murphy's peculiar adaptability to them, and the superior playing of his company, with but one or two exceptions, that the audience was highly delighted and entertained. The blacksmith scene in the third act, in which Mr. Murphy makes a horse shoe and shoes a horse is the very limit of realism, and the incident of the carrier pigeons bringing home to Nora Drew and her troubled father the tidings of the race upon which so much depends, is most beautifully done. Mr. Murphy is a clever actor and wins his innate buoyancy and naturalness bubbles over with wit, and if he is as young as he seems cannot be more than 20 years old to have him. For all mistakes are acceptable and pleasing. No, Drew, and Mrs. Meyer was about the most shapely and charming jockey who ever straddled a horse. Her dance in the smoky to the accompaniment of Mr. Murphy's hammer tattoo on the anvil was warmly encored. The house was appreciative and deservedly so. The show was one of pleasure. The same bill will be given tonight, and twice tomorrow, and Mr. Murphy deserves big houses.

Orison G. Bryant.

A Convincing Line of Argument to Slow Progress of the Lbez Seduction Case—Some Strong Evidence for the Injured Young Woman.

Court Notes.

The taking of testimony on behalf of the plaintiff in the suit instituted by Orison G. Bryant against Drs. Kurtz, Brainerd and Murphy for alleged unskillful treatment of a fractured femur bone was resumed before Judge Clark and a jury in Department Two yesterday, and after occupying their attention all day, went over until Tuesday morning next.

Somewhat of a sensation was created during the examination of the plaintiff at the morning session, when Bryant was called upon to remove his leather garments in order that his legs might be measured in the presence of the jurors and that they might see for themselves that the injured right leg was shorter than its fellow.

Except for this incident, however, the proceedings were of a very uninteresting nature during the remainder of the session, consisting chiefly of the examination of expert witnesses upon hypothetical questions based upon the evidence, for the most part.

THE LBEZ SEDUCTION CASE.

The preliminary examination into the case against Jean Lbez, the young Frenchman, charged with having seduced Baptiste Petit, an unmarried female of pious character, under promise of marriage, was adjourned by Justice Bartholomew with closed doors in the Township Court yesterday; but owing to the absence of material witnesses the matter was not concluded and went over until next week.

The principal witness examined yesterday was Mathilde Reynaud, a young French girl, who had known Baptiste before she left France and came to California, some two years ago. She stated in effect that the complainant had told her of her intimacy with Lbez, and when witness advised her to have nothing more to do with him, Bartholomew told her that the defendant had threatened to refuse to marry her unless she submitted to his desires. As a friend of Baptiste, witness finally interviewed Lbez upon the subject and asked him what he intended to do for the girl, telling him that she was with him, and he answered that Wilson had chosen the lesser of the two evils, jail and matrimony. Wilson was thereupon brought over from the jail to the Sheriff's office, and Justice Bartholomew was pressed into service to perform the ceremony which effectively disposed of the charge against the defendant and relieved the complainant from her embarrassing position.

PAID FOR THE TIMBER.

A Nice Little Profit on a Sewer Contract.

There is considerable talk among the contractors on the outfall sewer over a matter which has recently come to the surface and which promises to cause some trouble before it is finally adjusted. It appears that Mackey & Young secured a supplemental contract on their section of the outfall, allowing them pay for the timbers used in the excavation during the building of the tunnel, which they allowed to remain after the excavation was filled in. It is true that the superintendent of contractors recommended that the timbers remain as protection for the "green work" and on this recommendation a supplemental contract was secured and Messrs. Mackey & Young received full payment for the timbers which they necessarily had to use in their work and for which they doubtless made provision in their contract to receive a profit on the job some $1000, the amount allowed them. This demand was paid less than a month ago, and when the other contractors say how smoothly it went through, the others who had tunneled sections began figuring on how much could be saved the same thing. Frick Bros. have already petitioned the Council to allow them pay for timber and others will follow. It is claimed that the total amount which will be asked is about $6500, which represents a clear profit. The matter will come up Monday, probably, when a lively debate is anticipated.

Married to Escape Jail.
Garrison Wilson and Maggie Clark, a couple of young Texan negroes from Compton, were married by Justice Bartholomew in Sheriff Cline's office, yesterday morning, under circumstances of a somewhat peculiar nature.

A few days ago the girl appeared at the County Clerk's office and anxiously inquired of Deputy Kutz as to whether she could get a license to marry. He told her that she must have a license, with the ostensible purpose of doing so, but had not since returned. Upon learning that no such license had been issued, she visited the District Attorney's office and related her sad story of broken vows and disappointed trust, which resulted in the arrest of her recent lover and his incarceration in the County Jail. Early yesterday morning, however, she reappeared before Dr. Kutz, and, after purchasing the necessary license, announced that Wilson had chosen the lesser of the two evils, jail and matrimony. Wilson was thereupon brought over from the jail to the Sheriff's office, and Justice Bartholomew was pressed into service to perform the ceremony which effectively disposed of the charge against the defendant and relieved the complainant from her embarrassing position.

Flag-raising and Campfire at G. A. R. Hall.

The Veterans of the War Enjoying a Big Time—Plans for a Midwinter Fair Exhibit—Personals and Brevities.

The John F. Godfrey Post, G.A.R., flag-raising and campfire was postponed once on account of the weather. On Thursday these interesting events were held, and the sun shone brightly enough and the atmosphere was sufficiently balmy to cause all previous meteorological mistakes to be forgotten.

The flag-raising was the first event down on the programme. It happened at 6 o'clock in the afternoon and was strictly informal, but none the less enjoyable. The Frank Bartlett Post Drum Corps of Los Angeles started the festivities going by setting the echoes a-rolling to the stirring music of the fife and drum, in which Comrade Stuntz and other local veterans took an active hand. Then a large flag, purchased by the post especially for this occasion was pulled skyward until it reached the top of the flagstaff that towered above the new G.A.R. Hall on East Colorado street, and when Old Glory, the colors of which are so dear to every member of the Grand Army of the Republic, floated high aloft, three mighty cheers were given—the spontaneous outburst of the assembled crowd.

The Senator E. C. Seymour of San Bernardino, department commander of the G.A.R., mounted a hastily-improvised platform and delivered a brief but patriotic and eloquent address. He began by stating that the raising of the American flag means more to the members of the G.A.R. than any other citizens of this great republic. The pictures of many a hard-fought battle, where the upraising of the national colors marked a crisis in the turn of affairs, were graphically portrayed.

In closing the speaker said that the flag must be the emblem of the strongest arm the world has ever seen, and the place in which more genuine patriotism centers than in the whole valley outside. He closed by referring to the campfire and its accompanying pleasures in the evening. Commander Seymour's remarks were heartily applauded. The drum corps then gave a series of selections in which numerous of the old veterans took a hand, alternating from drum to fife and found themselves equally accomplished upon either instrument.

The campfire in the evening was largely attended, and the exercises were of a most interesting and enjoyable character. Commander C. C. Brown presided. There was no formal programme. The exercises opened with music by Conrad Smith, which was followed by a solo by Conradine Rev. G. Cowan, chaplain of the post. The Kyle Quartette rendered several patriotic selections, there were recitations by O. W. Kyle and Miss Flora Bambury and numerous brief and happy addresses. The speakers included Commanders General, Mr. Miller, Judge of Lincoln Park, Samuel Kutz of Los Angeles, district commander of the Southern California Association; Capt. A. F. Dill of San Diego, Maj. Nolan and others. Refreshments were served later under the auspices of Phil Kearney Camp, S. of V. of the W.R.C. and the Ladies Aid Society.

MIDWINTER FAIR MATTERS.

The Pasadena committee of seven appointed to formulate plans for a creditable loss exhibit at the Midwinter Fair, met at the Board of Trade rooms Thursday morning. Chairman C. H. Keyes presided. The general plan of operations was discussed and the importance of immediate action emphasized.

The following sub-committees were appointed: Photography and printing, C. D. Daggett; finance, Calvin Hartwell; fruit, M. H. Weight; individual exhibit, C. H. Keyes; local space, R. Williams; municipal exhibit, C. C. Brown.

The committee favored getting up a comprehensive exhibit which shall include a display of fruit and educational exhibit, a statement setting forth the growth and progress of the city, and a series of photographs displaying the most notable of the town's attractions. The committee held another meeting in the afternoon, and the details that decided upon will be submitted and acted upon at the general meeting of the Board of Trade to be held Saturday afternoon. The time is short, and united action on the part of the citizens will be necessary to secure a creditable exhibit.

DEATH OF COL. GREEN'S FATHER.

Ex-Mayor Dr. Lewis M. Green of Woodbury, N. J., father of Col. G. G. Green, one of the best-known of Pasadena's millionaires, died at his home on the evening of January 2, after a long illness. His entire life had been devoted to agricultural pursuits. After the death of his wife, he entered upon other lines of business, at which he amassed a considerable competence that proved to be the foundation of a large fortune.

The Phillips Ledger contains a long obituary article in which the following extracts are taken: "During his active business life, having been afflicted with dyspepsia, Mr. Green was handled by a friend a cluster of blossoms which, combined with a few drops of water, served as a remedy for the malady from which he suffered. This he introduced into the market under the name of Green's August Flower, which speedily became popular and attained a very extensive sale. He soon afterward purchased from a German the formula for Elixer of Green Syrup, which met with like success. In 1860 he made a business arrangement with his son, G. G. Green, the now millionaire medicine manufacturer. The manufacture and control of the various articles soon passed into the son's hands and the business increased rapidly annually to $40,000. This enabled him to devote his leisure to building and to the purchase and improvement of several farms, and he is now owner (within the limits of Woodbury) of eighty acres of valuable property centrally located. Mr. Green invariably enjoyed success in his business ventures, as a reward of industry and good judgment. He was a public-spirited man, and served five terms as mayor of Woodbury and three years as a member of the City Council. He was a supporter of all religious denominations, and manifested liberality in his donations to each. He was a member also of numerous secret and social organizations. He leaves an estate valued at many thousands of dollars."

PLEASANTRIES AT THE PAINTER.

The regular Wednesday evening entertainment at the Painter was provided for most delightfully by the committees in charge—Miss Doane and G. J. Hopkins—a "Five Senses" or Much Trouble Being Caused by Hordes of Tramps.

Two of the Gang Arrested for Burglary—The Goldthwaite Trial—The Story of the Defense—Personals and Brevities.

Marshal Nichols arrested two tramps Thursday, who are wanted in Orange for the offense. The men were Andrew Osgoodby, and take their pockets full of oranges. The men were arrested and taken before Judge Finch. One of them was identified, but the other, J. S. Adams, who (name hails from Fuller) demanded a jury trial. Adams admitted to the jury that he took the oranges, and made a speech in which he advised the jury that a man could not be punished for taking oranges from an orchard which was enclosed by a fence. There were no attorneys in the case, and the jury evidently thought Adams was right, and accordingly brought in a verdict of not guilty. This is a rather dangerous proceeding, as the orange-growers, tramps can admit taking oranges, and then be turned loose, the orange groves of this section will soon be crowded with the "unemployed." The officers say they will arrest no more, tramps for taking the oranges, and the growers can guard their own groves.

A WILLING PRISONER.

Police Protection Asked for by a Chinese Woman.

Tired of the Life of a Slave She Escapes from Her Keeper and Comes to City Prison—Her Story.

On the edge of a rough cot, in one of the open cells of the City Prison, a Chinese woman sat last evening preparing to spend a second night in jail. She was not there as a prisoner, although the heavy iron-grated door leading into the corridor was shut and bolted, but had done what few women of her nationality have the will to do, and that was to throw off the authority of her master and apply to the police for protection.

As she sat on the bed she seemed almost sorry that she had taken the step, for tears rolled down her face and she worked nervously with the colored bracelets about her wrists, murmuring to herself meanwhile. She was a woman of perhaps thirty years of age, small, like most of her sisters and the "better" class of householders, which had been drawn out of the silken lining of her clumsy-looking shoes as she sat perched upon the couch. She could not speak English very well, but managed to relate to a Times reporter the story of her wrongs in a fairly coherent manner.

She said her name was "Apple," and then continued after drying her eyes and pushing her bare feet back into the shoes: "I live here one year. Long time go live in Fresno. When I come here I go live in Ah Wing's house down in Chinatown. Ah Wing is belly down. He take all my money, go gamble, then come back and he say kill me if I no give more money. I afraid of him and run away. I like belly much go San Francisco, so Wing no find me."

That was her whole story, told in a few words possible. The police department will do all it can to help the woman through to San Francisco, where she will probably be placed in one of the Christian missions.

Charles Baker's Assistants Have Not Yet Been Captured.

The police and other officers of the law scoured the city yesterday in search of the two men who robbed Charles Baker in the river-bed near the Santa Fe depot Wednesday morning, but their efforts to find the bold felons were unrewarded with success. They appear to have effectively secreted themselves on left the city, and before this undoubtedly disposed of their ill-gotten booty.

At about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night the agent in charge at the Redondo depot telephoned to the police station that two men, suspended by ropes, were hanging around the rail yards, and that one of them wore a cap and seemed to answer the description of the larger of Mr. Baker's assistants. A mounted policeman was dispatched to the place without loss of time, but before reaching the depot the men had gone; and no trace of them was to be found about the premises.

As she sat on the bed she seemed almost sorry that she had taken the step, for tears rolled down her face and she worked nervously with the colored bracelets about her wrists, murmuring to herself meanwhile. She was a woman of perhaps thirty years of age, small, like most of her sisters and the "better" class of householders, which had been drawn out of the silken lining of her clumsy-looking shoes as she sat perched upon the couch. She could not speak English very well, but managed to relate to a Times reporter the story of her wrongs in a fairly coherent manner.

She said her name was "Apple," and then continued after drying her eyes and pushing her bare feet back into the shoes: "I live here one year. Long time go live in Fresno. When I come here I go live in Ah Wing's house down in Chinatown. Ah Wing is belly down. He take all my money, go gamble, then come back and he say kill me if I no give more money. I afraid of him and run away. I like belly much go San Francisco, so Wing no find me."

That was her whole story, told in a few words possible. The police department will do all it can to help the woman through to San Francisco, where she will probably be placed in one of the Christian missions.
